

Project

With Paul Doukhan, we work on the project related to the mathematical theory of records, outstanding results of nature or human activities. Our concern is to discover whether or not there will be infinitely many records or sometimes we will see the largest record which never will be improved. The classical model implies that this indeed is the case but some modern theories exhibit another way.